

GABRIEL FESTIVE INNOVATIONSPlc.

The Olympic Village (£4.99)

In an increasingly sought-after area, this stadium, barely used, mint condition, is just standing empty waiting for a developer! Rooftop missile base £2.50 extra.

Motor carr tax disc (20p per year)

The cost of petrol is laughable enough without having to pay for the upkeep of the motorways as well! Wave goodbye to excessive road tax with this Jimmy Carr™ tax disc, 98% cheaper than the standard version issued by the DVLA. Product of the Cayman Islands.

Lobbyist Ninjas app (£3.49)

Jeremy Hunt may always be glued to his mobile 'phone but he likes to chillax with this therapeutic game, in which players test their wits by attempting to slice up as many lobbyists as possible without being spotted by the watchful eye of the Judge!

General Synod-approved false beard (£7.99)

Girls: been waiting many years to become a bishop? Long time no See? Save the expense of the sex-change operation and simply pull on one of these false beards before entering the ministry!

Available styles: God in the Sistine Chapel; Moses; Rowan Williams.

Princess Kate "Censored" wash-on tattoo (£1.99)

Next time you're sunbathing in France in the nude, you needn't worry about peeping Pierres! Simply apply these skin-friendly organic wash-on tattoos in strategic places, and tan away!

Police Commissioner election victory (£5,000)

Democracy* has never been easier: simply spend more on campaigning than your opponents and become a Police Commissioner with a six-figure salary!

*Channukah disclaimer: even though you may expect 8 out of 10 people to vote, only 1 will.

Union Flag portable eruv (£79.99*)

The Ecuadorian Embassy may be foreign territory, and this may go totally against the spirit of very clear international law, but if needs must: take British sovereignty with you wherever you go!

*Special limited 'Julian Assange' edition

Dinner without David Cameron (£250,000)

Never again feel obliged to fork over a huge bribe for a tête-à-tête with the Prime Minister: for a one-off fee, you'll be guaranteed never to have to break bread with Cameron!

Child-sized electronic tag (£35.99)

Finally, a smart way to keep track of your children – never again find them in a pub hours after you've left! Designed by Guantanamo Enterprises: just attach the anklet and open up Google! (People who bought this item also bought Guantanamo's hydrotherapy kit.)

Secular Book of Proverbs (£8)

Religious texts at local council meetings are now a big no-no, so check out these updated gems of wisdom, especially designed for the busy local politician! "When thy enemy is hungry, outline their options for social security."

10,000 security guards* (£57m)

Provided by the world's third-largest private employer, these security guards are all trained to the highest standard by NewsCorp Private Investigators Inc., and their attendance is guaranteed. *Contracted for one nanosecond only.

8-in-1 Channukiah (£42.99)

Like a miracle: most channukiot have only one use: Judaism – but not the 8-in-1 model!

Features: 'Eucharist' blood-red lipstick for female bishops • Multi-tool guaranteed to fix any household problem: never rely on Jimmy Savile again • Stick to beat the BBC with when they're biased about Gaza and stuff • Hidden camera for photographing Scottish school meals: ideal for bloggers • 'NoPlebsHere' bicycle pump powered by hot air • Miniature caber to toss at people standing in the way of Scottish independence • Thermometer for checking pasties' VAT compliance • Multi-tip pencil, writes in 50 shades of grey

Genuine American gloves (£17.99)

At rock-bottom prices, buy up this surplus stock from the recent American election. Whatever the weather, keep your hands toasty warm with this pair of Romney mitts.